Dear Parents,

We are excited to have navigated the first week of ALF's virtual Instrumental Music program. We understand that there were a few glitches Monday and Tuesday, but it appears that the new list of classes and Zoom links that was sent Wednesday afternoon resolved those issues. Thanks go to Susan Bolan, our Philanthropic Administrator!

We had a few situations last week where an instructor was kept waiting for a student, so please encourage your child to be ready with their instrument, music stand, music book and a pencil, and in the waiting room shortly before their class time.

There are still a few Essential Elements Books waiting to be collected at ALF. Your student will need his/her book soon, so please plan to pick it up this week: M-W-F from 9:30-1:00. Or call (818) 790-2211 to see if someone happens to be at ALF. We are at 4607 Oakwood Avenue, LCF.

As a reminder, our website (alflintridge.org) takes you to Instrumental Music, where you can find answers to most of your questions. If you scroll to the bottom of any Music page, you will find buttons for classes and class schedules, Music staff's email addresses, calendar of music classes/events, a list of music stores, FAQs and much more.

I know it's not always convenient to go to the website, especially if you have an immediate issue with getting into a class or reporting an absence, so I am including a list of instructors, their instruments, and their contact information. If you do email your instructor, please cc instrumentalmusic@alflinridge.org so we are also in the loop.
