Dear Band Parents,

A quick update: Unfortunately, the instrument masks that we ordered weeks ago are still back ordered, but we were fortunate to get the bell covers for all the instruments except flutes. Students will need to wear their regular masks for now. Obviously, we're not the only group trying to get these materials, although many bands are now playing outside without any PPE. ALF chose to add this extra protection.

Since our band groups are quite small (4-8, one 13) and will be outside, there will be plenty of space for distancing and the ability to have flutes facing away from the group.

Thank you for your understanding.

We are looking forward to welcoming your students this week.
